

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A merchandise order receiving method, a program, and a first-order type drive through system in which an order receiver can trace an orderer's position during movement of the orderer of a merchandise and which stops the acquisition of position information of the orderer on an order receiver side at the time of merchandise transfer completion to protect orderer's privacy.